Bush leads popular vote; Kerry camp vows a fight
Obama sails to Senate win | Midwest states hold key

ELECTION 2004

Crane ousted

Battlegrounds

By Howard Witt and Andrew Martin

By Howard Witt

Detroit, Mich. — Barack Obama, the first black U.S. senator, captured Illinois on Tuesday night after his historic victory.

Election night unfolded with huge numbers of voters flocked to the polls. First-time voters played a crucial role in the outcome of the presidential race.

First-time voters flock to the polls

By Howard Witt

First-time voters played a crucial role in the outcome of the presidential race. They helped to boost voter turnout to historically high levels.

THE TURNOUT

First-time voters flock to the polls

By Howard Witt

First-time voters played a crucial role in the outcome of the presidential race. They helped to boost voter turnout to historically high levels.

Election results by the numbers

By Howard Witt

With an overall turnout of 98%, the 2000 election was a record turnout. The election was marked by high levels of voter participation, with over 120 million Americans casting their ballots.

U.S. Senate - Illinois

By Howard Witt

Despite a strong showing by incumbent Barack Obama, incumbent Kerry held on to his seat with a slim majority. Obama's victory was seen as a major upset in Illinois, which had traditionally voted for the Republican candidate.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE

By Howard Witt

Election night unfolded with huge numbers of voters flocked to the polls. First-time voters played a crucial role in the outcome of the presidential race.

THE TURNOUT

First-time voters flock to the polls

By Howard Witt

First-time voters played a crucial role in the outcome of the presidential race. They helped to boost voter turnout to historically high levels.

Election results by the numbers

By Howard Witt

With an overall turnout of 98%, the 2000 election was a record turnout. The election was marked by high levels of voter participation, with over 120 million Americans casting their ballots.

U.S. Senate - Illinois

By Howard Witt

Despite a strong showing by incumbent Barack Obama, incumbent Kerry held on to his seat with a slim majority. Obama's victory was seen as a major upset in Illinois, which had traditionally voted for the Republican candidate.